Pro Gamer Online tutoring

Love a game so much that you suck online, yeah it bring us all down. Do you want to get training from the pro's to enhance your gaming experience?

Summary

Redux has just released a new site aimed for Pro Gamers to share their wealth of skills. If you are a Pro gamer and need extra $$$ you can sell your time to train other gamers. We also have a 'Pro Gamer Resources' section, where people can view pro gamer related articles, guides, videos and strategies. This is all totally free of charge. The authors will not be left out like other resource sites, they all get a link to the original guide (or authors blog) plus donations directly from the guide page.

Website Address

<http://www.progamertraining.com>

Games Supported

Any online competitive games such as Counter Strike, Street Fighter 4, DOA4, Team Fortress 2 and many more.

How does it work?

Gamers will fill in an application form when they register. Once registered they will be reviewed by our staff. Once happy, they will be activated on the site. Customers then can browse the site for suitable tutors, they can leave a message through the profile and then book. The customer is protected by a full money back guarantee if not satisfied by the tutor.

Pro Gamer Tutoring

The way the site works is that the gamer tutor creates an advert on the site, showing what game they train and skill level. They can even specify their hourly rates on how they feel fit. People see the advert is pay for the time they want to spend with the game tutor. To protect the customer, the payment is stored by ProGamerTraining.com. Once the customer is happy with the tutoring they required, the tutor then gets paid for the time spent with the customer. This also stops scammers trying to make money and taking people for a ride, as if the customer inst satisfied. They get a full refund.

Pro Gamer Sponsoring for events

We are trialing with the idea to help the Pro Gamer community to getting local sponsors for tournaments. All the money goes to the making of the T-shirt and pays for the gamers entrance fee. We have already got sponsors for gamers.

Guild Commission

The way this works is if the clan gets their Pro Gamers on the site, once they get a booking. The clan gets a share of the commission that I charge the tutors.

We are in talks with 3 major world class clans in the US and the UK. They seem very interested in the concept, they will be trialing our services in a few weeks. We offer other clan members to trial the new service.

Pro Guides and resources

Unlike other guide sites, we actually credit the author not only with a link to their site / guide / blog. We actually have built a function to allow the author to put in his / her Paypal email address to get donations direct from the page. We accept Master Card, AMEX, Visa and Paypal. People can read the article for free also rate and comment on the article.

Articles from other resource sites will be linked back to the original site and any donations direct to the original resource site. So if you run a gaming resource site, you will get a back link to your site plus donations (they will have to add articles themselves to get the donations).

A typical article could be aimed at new players, showing what gear to buy to enhance yourself (i.e. Street Fighter 4 Arcade stick - Even adding in a referral affiliate link to the company). Another example could be for 'World of Warcraft' on what addons to install to make your levelling easier.

Build of the site

Redux is a very small start-up design company based in Spain. The site has taken nearly 3000 hours in build time to get this far.

NOTES TO EDITOR

- We have 65 active tutors on the site
- The site is getting orders, with positive feedback
- We have some big MLG and former CGS Pro Gamers tutoring on the site
- Site is still in beta and growing all the time
- Please let me know if you post the article on your site.
